REACH AGREEMENT ON REPARATIONS

Teuton Delegates Will Be Invited to Conference Soon

TAX GERMAN EXPORTS

France Compelled to Bow to the Figures That Experts Tell Her—Are the Most That Germany Can Pay

Paris, Jan. 29.—The Supreme Council yesterday reached an agreement on German reparations, the key of the proposals consisting of a tax on German prosperity which will yield results according to the slow or speedy revival of industry in that country. This solution was welcomed by all of the Allies, because it will amount to an export tax on German products.

Any agreement on reparations appeared impossible yesterday throughout the long session and numerous minor conferences, but the ingenuity of the Allied diplomats and their experts solved the problem.

Details of the scheme are yet to be finally adjusted, but the following are the general lines:

Germany will pay, roughly, the same annuities as were discussed at the Boulogne Supreme Council meetings, but added to this will be a sliding scale tax on Germany's economic revival.

The number of years during which Germany is to pay annuities will be fixed but the total will still remain indefinite because of the inability to learn at this time how much the proposed tax on German prosperity will yield.

This new plan will enable Premier Briand to go before Parliament and declare that the minimum amount which the Allies will receive will be increased by more if German trade becomes sufficiently prosperous to warrant greater payments.

According to the Boulogne agreement, Germany was to pay 269,000,000,000 of gold marks in 42 annual payments. In each of the first five years it was to pay 3,000,000,000, during the next five years 6,000,000,000 and then 7,000,000,000 for each of the remaining 32 years.

Under the new agreement these annuities will remain approximately the same, although the length of time for the total payments may be extended or contracted. It is probable the first payments may be diminished owing to the German claim that it will be very difficult to make immediate payments.

Under the proposed system of payments, it is believed possible to please all parties. France, however, is badly in need of funds at once, and it is possible that in the general relief in getting the reparations problem settled some kind of an international loan may be made to supply the sums she needs.

Another difficulty which had to be overcome was Belgium's priority right to the first two and a half millions of German indemnity payments.

Roughly speaking, the effects of the present agreement will be identical with the Boulogne scheme, but it has the merit of looking better to the general public. In truth, France has been compelled to bow to the figures which the experts tell her are the most that Germany can pay.

The present scheme, of course, is subject to German agreement, but in view of the fact that it may be possible to make concessions to them their consent is regarded as probable. A conference with the German representatives will be called at an early date in order that the entire matter can be decided finally.

Germany's increases in yearly payments will be calculated on its trade, probably on the amount of exports. The plan, said to have been considered this afternoon, is for a tax of from 10 to 15 per cent on the export values.

It is considered that this system will work out usefully for the Allies and America in their competition in the world markets against Germany's low priced goods. If the Allies take a fixed percentage of Germany's export this will increase the price of German products, which otherwise, many's low priced goods. If the Allies change, might monopolize world markets.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Reports Gain in Population

The Chamber of Commerce reports that in the year following the taking of the January 1920 census the population of Alexandria, Va., has increased from 18,060 to 18,421 according to a survey of the larger cities of the United States, made by the News paper Feature Bureau. The figures are as follows:

January, 1921, population 18,421, increase per cent 2.0; January, 1920, population 18,060, increase per cent, 17.8; April, 1910, population 15,329, increase per cent, 5.5

The survey is based on comparative figures of public school enrollment and domestic water services for the close of 1919 and the close of 1920, together with reports on annexations of territory during 1920, making an accurate statement of the city's present population possible.

The city's survey included the following information from local sources:

Report of superintendent of schools W. H. Sweeney, showing public school enrollment of 2,809 at the close of 1919 compared with 2,845 at the close of 1920 an increase of 36 or 1.3 per cent.

There were no annexations to the city during the year 1929.

Successful Affair

Dance and Pictures Help Swell Hospital Equipment Fund.

The picture show for children yesterday afternoon at the Elks' Home, for the benefit of the Alexandria Hospital, was a splendid success, the hall was filled and the little ones enjoyed the performance greatly.

At 3 o'clock the pictures were repeated, the Mary Pickford film, "The Heart of The Hills," a Mutt and Jeff comedy and also a travelogue in color was thrown on the screen while dancing was in progress. The lights were turned off for this number, giving a most attractive moonlight effect.

The members of the hospital auxiliary board have expressed their thanks to all who helped them, contributing to the success of the affair from a social, artistic and financial standpoint.

The picture were shown by Kirk E. Wallace, local Y. M. C. A., secretary, using the machine recently given to the "Y."

The auxiliary board pledged to raise one thousand dollars for the hospital equipment fund, and previous to this entertainment had raised more than half of that amount

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my daughter, BERTIE EVANS, whom God called one year ago today, January 30, 1920.

By Mother.

Home is sad, oh God, how lonely,
Lonely every night and day,
It is not bright like it used to be
Before my dear daughter went away.
I often sit and wonder
What you would think and say,
If you only knew the changes
That have happened since you went away.

Police Court Grist

Dogs And Assault Cases Claim Attention of Justice Snow

While delivering papers last Thursday afternoon a white newsboy was bitten on the leg by a dog. He told the police that a colored boy set the dog on him. The colored lad was cited to appear. The white boy failed to appear. Case dismissed.

When the name of Russel Turner, colored, was called to answer a charge made by Mary Lewis, colored, of disorderly conduct, Turner failed to appear. Anyhow the court heard Mary's statement and directed the police to collect $5 from Turner. Turner had been released on his own recognizance.

When the case of a jitney driver was called to answer a charge of failing to stop his vehicle when an electric car was detraining passengers, Russell Thompson, a conductor on the trolley line, did not appear and the accused man was acquitted.

Case Set For Feb. 10th

W. and O. D. Rwy., Co., Hailed Before Corporation Commission

Richmond, Jan. 29.—For "failure to carry out the commission's order to provide a better schedule on the Great Falls Division." the Washington and Old Dominion Railway Company will be summoned to appear before the Virginia Corporation Commission in this city February 10 to show cause why they should not be fined for failure to obey the mandate.

The Commission yesterday fined the company $100 for failure to comply with their order of December 1 to provide better service to patrons of the line. With the order of December 1 the Commission handed out a fine of $1,150 to the company, which has been appealed to the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

Many indignation meetings were held by patrons in communities along the line last summer and fall on account of the alleged poor service the company was giving. The Commission finally took cognizance of the fact, investigated and ordered the company to provide better service. When the company ignored the Commission's order the fine resulted.

The Albemarle Telephone Company of Charlottesville was given a hearing yesterday on the protest against proposed toll rates between Esmond and Scottsville.

School Parties

Pupils and Teachers in Mount Vernon School Arlington County Enjoy Socials

The fifth grade of Mt. Vernon School was very demonstrative in their school spirit, when they gave an enjoyable party to their teacher Miss Marguerite Waitt, Thursday night, January 27, from 7 to 9 p. m., in the school auditorium.

It was very well attended by the pupils of that grade also the teachers of the school.

They played many games and served elaborate refreshments furnished by the members of the class.

The school spirit of Mt. Vernon school is very much in evidence as the different grades are, so enthusiastic in giving their teachers parties in the auditorium.

On Friday, January 21, the seventh grades enjoyed a very pleasant party given them by their teacher Miss Mabel Henderson, complimentary to one given her, by her class, just before the Xmas holidays.

The parties were well attended by members of the class and all the teachers.

150,000 ARMY PLAN FACES FIGHT IN HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 29.—Storm warnings were up in the House yesterday over proposals of the Appropriations Committee to pare the regular army down to 150,000 men.

The Appropriation bill making provision for that number during the next fiscal year was reported by Chairman Anthony, of an appropriations subcommittee; but it was intimated that Republican members of the Military Committee planned to fight it out on the floor. Several members asserted their unwillingness to accept further reduction below the 175,000 figure fixed by the House and Senate recently in a resolution which reached the White House yesterday for consideration of the President.

FAVORS GOOD ROADS IN VIRGINIA

Senator Carter Glass Addresses Convention on Subject

URGES DIRECT TAX

Appeals for Adequate Funds With Which to Further Program—C. C. Vaughan Heads Body.

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 29.—The tenth annual convention of the Virginia good Roads Association was brought to a close yesterday afternoon. The last session of the three-day convention was featured by the election of new officers, including Miss Elizabeth Pidgeon, fourth vice-president, the first woman to be elected to office in an association of this kind in the history of Virginia; an address by Senator Carter Glass, and the adoption of important resolutions including the approval of a deferred serial State highway bond issue and a recommendation that the State-aid road act be amended so as to compel counties applying for State aid in road construction to make definite and adequate provision for the maintenance of roads after their construction.

Senator Glass was introduced to the road delegates about 12 o'clock. Declaring that he has voted for the constitutional amendment for good roads, the Senator appealed for adequate finance to carry the movement forward. That the returns from good roads will be far more than the money expended in their construction is assured, the speaker said, is ground for no argument.

Urging direct tax for good road construction in order that the public may know where its money is going and to whom it should look for the carrying out of road projects, Senator Glass said that it is a gross fallacy to continue paying indirect taxes.

For years, Senator Glass said, Virginia has been paying a "mud-road tax." It would be far better to pay a smaller direct tax and, at the same time, be able to fix responsibility.

Following Senator Glass' address, the resolution committee rendered its report on the resolutions adopted by the association. Foremost among these are No. 10, placing the Good Roads Association on record as favoring a deferred serial State highway bond issue, and No. 1, urging the maintenance of roads by the counties who ask State aid in constructing them.

The following officers and committee were elected by the association: C. C. Vaughan, president; R. H. Angell, first vice-president; R. R. Turner, second vice-president, The Plains; Miss Elizabeth Pidgeon, fourth vice-president, Richmond; John W. Chalkley, fifth vice-president, Big Stone Gap, and D. B. Ryland, secretary and treasurer.

Executive committee: C. O'Conor Goolrick, Fredericksburg; W. S. Benston, Norfolk; Thomas B. McAdams, Richmond; R. B. Turner, Clarksville; S. S. Guerrant, Calloway; Herbert C. Elliott, Roanoke; R. S. Miller, Front Royal; J. Y. Williams, Alexandria; Henry Roberts, Bristol; M. B. Corse, Lexington; W. R. Rawlings, Hampton; T. B. Birdsong, Suffolk, George P. Coleman, Williamsburg; N. B. Davidson, Farmville; E. G. Holland, Danville; O. L. McCraw, Lynchburg; Hollis Rhinehart, Charlottesville; G. P. Harrison, Herndon; E. S. Finney, Lebanon, and J. F. McAlister, Hot Springs.

Foremost among the speeches yesterday in point of interest was that of Francis Holley, director of the Bureau of Commercial Economics, Washington, D. C. It was through Mr. Hofey's efforts and co-operation that the Virginia Good Roads Association will undertake an extensive good road campaign of information by means of the motion picture. Mr. Holley will supply the State with one of its educational trucks, equipped with motion picture films and phonograph.

Mr. Holley, in explaining the work and purposes of the organization of which he is director, said that the Bureau of Commercial Economics is an altruistic association using the facilities and instrumentalities of governments, manufacturers and educational institutions in the dissemination of useful information by the graphic method of motion pictures displayed invariably to audiences admitted free.

Work Of Firebugs

Three Recent Fires Investigated by Fire Chief Proves They Were of Incendiary Origin.

A recent investigation made by Fire Chief Kenneth W. Ogden disclosed it is reported that three fires that have occurred recently in this city were of incendiary origin. It is alleged that three young men were responsible for the fires.

One of the fires was at the old Hallowell School building on the east side of Alfred between Princess and Oronoco streets. This building is unoccupied and formerly was used as a school for colored children.

Fire No. 2 was in an unoccupied house on the south side of Wolfe between Royal and Fairfax streets.

The third fire was a pile of logs in the alley bounded by Prince, Duke Patrick and Henry streets.

A desire to see the fire apparatus run is said to have been responsible for the work of the incendiaries.

Breakdown, Illness, Mutiny, Storm is Log of Belgian Ship

New York, Jan. 29.—The mystery of the Belgian cargo steamship Carnonier, which was reported in distress on Wednesday and later reported safe, was cleared up yesterday when the skipper steered her in to port here and related a tale of two months' hardship, sickness and alleged mutiny.

The ship sailed from Bordeaux on November 22 and was battered by gales and heavy seas every hour of the voyage. A week ago, running short of coal, Captain Nicolas said, they put in at Bermuda to restoke. Three firemen were taken ill and had to be left there.

After sailing again, five sailors were alleged to have refused to budge from their bunks and to have threatened the life of the sixth, an 18-year old Frenchman, if he offered to take his turn at the wheel. The captain's offer to promote him and give him a bunk amidships failed to remove his fears.

All responsibility for running the ship therefore devolved upon the skipper, his male and three officers, who, by this time, were becoming sea weary.

On Wednesday during the heaviest storm of the voyage the engines went dead. The wireless apparatus long since had been out of commission. In desperation, the wireless operator, after many efforts, managed to send the distress messages, which on account of weather conditions was garbled on its receipt here. Fragments of the message, however, led to suspicions that it was the Carnonier which was in distress, but derangement of the sailing compass prevented the ship's operator from indicating its position.

Late in the afternoon, however, the storm abated, the engines were repaired and they began to make progress for the first time in 24 hours.

Upon his arrival Captain Nicolas reported the alleged mutiny of the five sailors, who are Frenchmen, to the Belgian consulate. Action against them, however, was reserved pending investigation of international law defining their status. The question to be solved is whether the Belgian consulate has jurisdiction over French sailors shipping under the Belgian flag within a United States port.

But they little know the sorrow
That lies in my heart concealed.

Tears of sorrow silently flow,
You cannot come to me dear wife,
But some day I will come to you.

RAILROAD Y.M.C.A. AT POTOMAC YARDS

Organization Effected Thursday Night—Officers Chosen

FIVE COMMITTEES

They Include Physical, Educational, Social, Religious and Economics.—Next Meeting Friday Night.

A railroad branch of the local Y. M. C. A., has been organized at the Potomac railroad yards. This organization was completed at a meeting of the men of the yard in the accountants office Thursday evening.

Secretary Wallace, of the Y. M. C. A., began the work of organization as soon as the delegates from the yards returned from the fifteenth international railroad conference at Richmond in November. H. L. Cochran, an accountant, was elected chairman of the executive committee; J. H. Avrill, a mechanic, was chosen vice chairman; J. W. Varney, chief accountant, secretary, and R. L. Long, of the maintenance of way department, treasurer.

It was decided to have five committees for the present and add additional ones as the organization discovers the need for them. The committees for the present are physical, educational, social, religious, and economics. A board of trustees will probably be elected later, but for the present the business of the organization will be handled by the executive committee, which will consist of the officers and chairman of the various committees.

The physical department committee is as follows: T. C. Hollingsworth, Victor Havvron, M. L. Parker and J. E. Connor, of the mechanical department; E. E. Risdon, and D. M. Knapp, of the accounting department, and L. H. Madison, of the transportation department.

B. Roberts and W. A. Harding, agency. These committees are to meet and select their own chairman, and these chairman will automatically become members of the executive committee. The next meeting of the branch association will be held in the office of the chief accountant Friday evening February 4.

RATCLIFFE—In loving memory of our darling little daughter, ALICE VIRGINIA RATCLIFFE, who departed this life two years ago today, January 29, 1919.

God needed an angel to bloom in his garden fair,
So he took our darling baby and transplanted her over there.
Heaven now regains its treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps,
And the sun beams love to linger
Where our darling baby sleeps.
Keep her, Jesus, in Thy keeping,
Till we reach the shining shore,
Then, O Jesus, let us have her,
To love and keep her as before.

Gone but not forgotten.

ALEXANDRIA COURTESY. It is with pleasure, as well as truthfulness, that the GAZETTE can speak for the uniform courtesy with which the employees of the public utilities in Alexandria treat their patrons. We do not desire to be invidious in our distinction—far from it—but we cannot help mentioning the affability and gracious suavity of the young ladies who attend our telephone exchange. In many cities it is an aggravation to use the phone; repeated verbal duels by phone often spoil the day; and the ordinary male is no match for the ordinary young lady, whose tongue is as sharp as a kitten's claw. Here in Alexandria, however, it is a pleasure to phone, and the agreeable accents and polite responses are marked features of the service. We suspect this is an experience peculiar to Alexandria. The Alexandrian young lady is to the manner born. Perhaps a trait now grown hereditary and descended from the Golden Age of Virginia's history, when the powdered peruke, the knee-breeches, and the small-sword distinguished the men, and the empire gown, the high-piled coiffure, the dainty patch on the dazzling skin, the rose-complexion native to its wearer,—when all these graced the ladies and brought the cavalier to his be-gartered knees. But whatever the origin—the habit or custom or consuetude—call it what you will—is here among us, and adds to the other delights of life in Alexandria.

ADVERTISING RETRACTION. A certain shoe company, with branches in various cities, has found it expedient to publish large display ads in the Washington papers, retracting certain statements made on previous occasions. They had had fires in two of their stores in different cities, and subsequent advertisements had enlarged upon this so that the inference might have been drawn that these fires were so serious as to affect prices and produce unusual bargains in the stores where the company operates. This was apparently not the fact, and the Better Business Bureau of the Advertising Club of Washington, called the attention of the president to the advertisements. The latter promptly corrected the possible impression, in an ad headed "Retraction and Apology." This is an instructive lesson to all advertisers. Too much care cannot be taken in making an advertisement dependable. Once this reputation is acquired it will endure for years. Our Alexandria merchants are alive to this, both in theory and practice, and we are accordingly both proud and glad always to commend their announcements in our columns.

THAT WORD ALEXANDRINE. On page Food Page of yesterday, containing the announcements of our merchants who have good things to eat, with their attractive prices, we published certain cooking receipts from Alexandria hostesses, under the heading "Alexandrines." Our printers, who know words about as well as most college-professors, brought the copy back, claiming there was no such word in the English language. We opened the Big Dictionary, always at our elbow, and proved our case. We had a motive in heading this column: "Alexandrines." But it occurred to us that possibly the reason might not be so apparent to our readers. We therefore hit upon the idea that it would be an interesting plan to offer a prize for the best answer, not exceeding 200 words, giving a reason why this name could be given to such a column as "Cooking Receipts from Alexandria Ladies." Dictionaries may be consulted, and advice had from older people—but all answers must be original.

Accordingly, we offer a prize of five dollars, two dollars for the best answer, and one dollar each, for the next three in merit. Competition open to girls in any of the schools in Alexandria, between the ages of ten and eighteen. The prize is small, but the ingenuity developed in the adaptation of the name to the column will be instructive and interesting. All answers must be in prior to February 16th. Announcement of winners to be made in our Friday edition, February 18th. The judges, three in number, will be announced later.

Harvard Economic Expert Says America Escaped Great Panic

Boston, Jan. 29.—A return to normal business conditions by April or May was predicted by Prof. Charles J. Bullock, chairman of the committee on economic research at Harvard university, in an address to the Associated Savings Trust Companies of Massachusetts last night.

"We would have suffered the worst panic in history," he said, "but for two factors—for the first time Europe was our debtor to the extent of $15,000,000,000 or $20,000,000,000 and we had our Federal reserve system. Wholesale prices never fell so fast nor so far in so brief a period as now. We now appear to be in the last phase Liquidation of retail prices and labor."

NEW BERGDOLL INQUIRY LIKELY

The publication of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll's own story of his escape from Philadelphia and his flight to Germany yesterday caused official Washington, at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue to revive the elaborate plans once laid for a real investigation of the affair.

The House resolution, authorizing an inquiry, will be presented to the Military Affairs Committee for consideration next Tuesday.

Although representing himself to be without "official" information on Bergdoll's whereabouts and the attempt made in Ebersbach to kidnap him by two Americans, at least one of whom is a member of the American forces of occupation, Secretary of War Baker asserted the army efforts to apprehend the draft dodger would be redoubled.

The only new fact developed at the War Department was that Frank Zimmer, one of the Americans held in Germany for the attempt to kidnap Bergdoll, is a sergeant in the American army of occupation.

"I am glad the Bergdoll story was published," said Secretary Baker. "It may enable the army to find a new tack in the Bergdoll investigation. The inquiry has been constant, and the government will not be satisfied until the whole affair is cleared up."

In discussing the affair Senator Borah said:

"If that is true, that's an outrage. The manner in which Bergdoll so easily escaped was indicative of gross negligence or criminal negligence upon the part of those who were responsible for his safekeeping. At any rate, the government cannot afford to sit quiet and ignore either the method of his escape or the story. In fact, the integrity and the good name of the army are involved, and it ought to be cleared up and responsibility established. I have no doubt that it will be done; if not immediately, later."

ALL WORN OUT

Does morning find you with a lame stiff and aching back? Are you tired all the time—find work a burden? Have you suspected your kidneys? Alexandria people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. You can rely on their statements.

Mrs. M. E. Williams, 523 Oronoco Street, Alexandria, says: "I was so bad off with pains in my back I was about all worn out. I would put my hands on my back trying to relieve the pain through my kidneys. When I bent over I could hardly straighten again. This weakened me very much and made me so nervous I could hardly stand the least noise. Dizziness affected me when I bent over and everything would turn black. My kidneys didn't act at all right. I tried different things such as purting turpentine on the small of my back until it would blister. Nothing did me any good until I started using Doan's Idney Pills. I kept getting better right along and was soon cured."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Williams had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

RECORD LOAD HAULED BY VIRGINIAN ENGINE

The run of 125 miles was made in nine hours and fifty minutes, with four stops to take on the 40,000 gallons of water consumed in providing the motive power.

REDUCES BREAD; GETS BRICK.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—"Every time they hurl a brick through my windows I will cut the price of bread one cent a loaf until it is back to a nickel for a big loaf."

This was the defiance issued yesterday by Benjamin Schacter, who operates a large bakery. Three men in an automobile running without license plate or lights, dashed past his bakery last night and flung a cobblestone through one of his large display windows.

"It was the Jewish Master Bakers' Association," he said. "They threatened me when I first reduced the price to 9 cents. I can sell bread at 9 cents and make a good profit. I'll let no gang dictate to me and just because they broke my window the price of bread will be 8 cents. Every time they reak my windows or commit similar deviltry, I will cut one cent off the price."

The glaziers in that section expect this announcement to boom their business.

BULLET FIRED INTO WINDOW UPSETS GOTHAM MAGISTRATE

New York, Jan. 29.—The Essex Market Police Court was thrown in to confusion yesterday when a bullet was fired through the window, passing over the head of the Assistant District Attorney and the Magistrate, and finally embedding itself in the wall near the Magistrate's bench.

The courtroom was cleared and police made a fruitless search of nearby buildings for the person firing the shot.

The court was engaged in the trial of Harry Cohn, charged with an alleged violation of a section of the Tenement House law. Reports earlier in the day of a probable demonstration by persons interested in cases being tried led the Magistrate to clear the courtroom.

Cohn was arrested January 10 with Benjamin Weinstein, who is charged with malteratine. Caroline Gray, of Roanoke, Va. The girl was testifying at the time the bullet passed through the room.

The Magistrate declared that no threats had been made against his life and that he was unaware of any enemies.

Letter Reaches Woman After Following Her for 19 Years

Dedham, Mass., Jan. 29.—A letter that had been 19 years on the way, part of the time traveling through the war capitals of Europe, was delivered yesterday to Mrs. Fred I. Pratt, of this town. It looked like a futuristic conception of the international postal system gone mad, with more than a score of foreign postmarks cutting curliques with domestic marks. London, Petrograd and Berlin and other far places were registered cheek by jowl with the little station of City Mills, from which the letter was sent on February 2, 1902.

Some of the dates indicated that the letter at times was within a day or two of overtaking Mrs. Pratt at others it was years behind, and oddly it found her yesterday within a few miles of its starting place.

Reports From Automobile Shows

"Reports from the many automobile shows throughout the country are most encouraging," says Mr. Ilich, President Aero-Auto Co., Inc., local dealers in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars.

"The attendance is generally larger than in previous years. And people are showing a much keener and more critical interest.

"It is obvious that the public has learned the importance of motor transportation. The individual has been educated to the usefulness of the passenger car as necessary equipment that increases his personal efficiency just as commercial cars increase efficiency in business.

"Accordingly the greatest attention at the shows is centered on mechanical ability. People are taking a more and more practical interest in securing the utmost service for their money.

"They have come to realize that beauty is only skin deep in a motor car as in people and that real beauty is as beauty does.

"Few novelties in motor car design have been exhibited and little real interest has been accorded them. Gasoline mileage, tire mileage, simplicity of construction and operation, these are the subjects on which exhibitors have been questioned.

"And the most careful purchasers have chosen cars with known records for economical, and dependable performance. For a reputation for service and satisfaction is always the best guarantee of a profitable investment in a motor car."

New York, Jan. 29.—The American Committee for Relief in Ireland announced yesterday that Daniel O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, who yesterday disappeared from sight, was still in the United States and would reappear publicly tomorrow at an Irish meeting here.

The Knight Deceived by The Magician

After his victory over Falsehood, the Red Cross Knight again mounted his steed, and he and the Lady Una went on their way. Keeping carefully to one path, and turning neither to the right hand nor the left, at last they found themselves safely out of the Wood of Error.

But now they were to fall into the power of a more dangerous and treacherous foe than even the hateful monster, Falsehood.

They had travelled a long way, and met with no fresh adventure, when at last they chanced to meet in the road an old man. He looked very wise and good. He was dressed in a long black gown, like a hermit, and had bare feet and a grey beard; he had a book hanging from his belt, as was the custom with scholars in those days. He seemed very quiet and sad, and kept his eyes fixed on the ground, and all the time, as he went along, he seemed to be saying prayers, and lamenting over his own wickedness.

When he saw the travellers he made a very humble salute to them. The Red Cross Knight returned the greeting with all courtesy, and asked him if he knew of any strange adventures that were then taking place.

"Ah, my dear son!" said the hermit, "how should a simple old man, who lives in a lonely cell, and does nothing all day but sorrow for his faults—how should such a man know any tidings of war or worldly trouble? It is not fitting for me to meddle with such matters. But, if indeed you desire to hear about danger and evil near at hand, I can tell you about a strange man who wastes all the surrounding country."

"That," said the Knight, "is what I chiefly ask about, and I will reward you well if you will guide me to the place where he dwells. For it is a disgrace to knighthood that such a creature should be allowed to live so long."

"His dwelling is far away from here, in the midst of a barren wilderness," answered the old man. "No living person may ever pass it without great danger and difficulty."

"Now," said the Lady Una, "night is drawing near, and I know well that you are wearied with your former fight. Therefore, take rest, and with the new day begin new work."

"You have been well advised, Sir Knight," sai dthe old man. "Day is now spent; therefore take up your abode with me for this night."

The travellers were well content to do this, so they went with the apparently good old man to his home.

It was a little lowly hermitage, down in a dale by the side of a forest, far from the beaten track of travellers. A small chapel was built near, and close by a crystal stream gently welled forth from a never-failing fountain.

Arrived at the house, they neither expected nor found any entertainment; but rest was what they chiefly needed, and they were well satisfied, for the noblest mind is always the best contented. The old man had a good store of pleasing words, and knew well how to fit his talk to suit his visitors. The evening passed pleasantly, and then the hermit conducted his guest to the lodgings where they were to spend the night.

But when they were asleep a horrid change came over the old man, for in reality he was not good at all, although he pretended to be so. His heart was full of hatred, malice, and deceit. He called himself Archimago, which means a "Great Magician," but his real name was Hypocrisy. He knew that as long as Holiness and Truth kept together, no great harm could come to either of them; so he determined to do everything in his power to separate them. For this purpose he got out all his books of magic and set to work to devise cunning schemes and spells. He was so clever and wily that he could deceive people much better and wiser than himself. He also had at his bidding many bad little spirits ,who ran about and did his messages; these he used to help his friends and frighten his enemies, and he had the power of making them take any shape he wished.

Choosing out two of the worst of these, he sent one on a message to King Morpheus, who rules over the Land of Sleep. He bade him bring back with him a bad, false dream, which Archimago then carried to the sleeping Knight. So cunningly did he contrive the matter, that when the Knight awoke the next morning he never knew that it had only been a dream, but believed that all the things he had seen in his sleep had really happened.

In the meanwhile Archimago dressed up the other bad spirit to look like Una, so that at a little distance it was impossible to tell any difference in the two figures. He knew that the only way to part Holiness and Truth was to make Holiness believe by some means that Truth was not as good as she appeared to be. He know also that the Red Cross Knight would believe nothing against the Lady Una except what he saw with his own eyes. Therefore he laid his plans with the greatest care and guile.

Now we shall see how he succeeded in his wicked endeavor.

(To be continued next Saturday).

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Due to those horrid things, commonly called examinations High School activities have been at very low ebb for the past week.

On Tuesday afternoon the monotony was broken by the second game of the girls interclass series which resulted in a victory for the seniors over the freshmen by the one sided score of 19 to 4. The game was featured by the shooting of Miss Kathryn Adams. Immediately following the girls game Mr. Harper's "Bathing Beauties" met and defeated the "Manassas Midgets" in a most thrilling game by a score of 16 to 15. The cut came of the game was in doubt until the final whistle sounded, Hoof being at center and Kaufmann at forward were the best of the "Beauties." Lake and Lynn, forwards for Manassas, played a game that players far older than they would have been proud of. These boys promise to be the basket ball stars of the near future.

Friday, both the boy's and girl's teams accompanied by an enthusiastic corps of supporters journeyed to the town of our greatest rivals, Manassas. At 7.30 the High School boys started the battle. They quickly gained a lead on Manassas which was not threatened again during the contest. Both teams passed well but our guards were a bit too much for them. The clever and consistent shooting of Dreifus featured, but was made possible by the great work of Petitt and Midkiff. Gue and Larson also played a great game for the losers. Final score 38 to 17. Summary: Field goals, A. H. S., Midkiff 5, Dreifus 10, Petitt 3. M. H. S., Hooff 2, Gue 4, Larson 2. Free goals, A. H S, Petitt. 2 M. H. S., Gue 1.

Immediately following the boys' game the girls came on the floor to take their share of the glory, and did so by a score of 12 to 11. From the first Alexandria took the lead which was not threatened until the last three minutes of play when they were tied and then passed by one point. The score stood thus and 30 seconds to play, the rooters were "in the air" when suddenly Miss Adams found the bat, shot, rang the basket and registered the winning point. The game was over. Misses Dienelt and Adams at forward and Miss Watties at guard deserve special mention.

Both teams will play at Warrenton tonight. High School will open again in full blast Monday, January 31.
